Wrong-way driver killed

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A Sacramento man is dead after a wrong-way driving accident on US 50 early in the morning on Saturday. The accident was reported at 1:22 a.m.

"A Chevy van was being driven by a man," said Division Chief John Heilmann of the West Sacramento Fire Department. "He got onto the freeway heading the wrong direction – he was on the westbound side of the Pioneer Bridge, above Jefferson Boulevard, heading eastbound."

The man "collided head-on with a tow truck," added Heilmann.

"The guy in the van was killed on impact. The tow truck driver is said to be in fair condition."

There were no other passengers involved.

The victim was 24-year old Juan Rizo Salazar, said Robert Labrash, Chief Deputy Coroner for Yolo County. He was pronounced dead just minutes after the accident, with the cause of death listed as "multiple blunt force injuries."

Were alcohol or drugs involved in Salazar's wrong-way driving?

"We have not ruled out alcohol, but we have ruled out illicit drugs," Labrash commented. "We're still waiting for some of the toxicology tests involving alcohol."

Stray horses rounded up

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Local police, state Fish & Game, and a "good Samaritan with a trailer" helped round up three horses loose on Jefferson Boulevard in the wee hours of Saturday morning.

Police received a call about the horses at 1:22 a.m. The animals were "running around on the street," said Sgt. Lance Faille of the Yolo County Sheriff's Department.

"West Sacramento Police Department responded. Fish

So far, so good

The weather is clearing this week and no local levees seem to pose a danger. A fire department spokesperson told the News-Ledger yesterday that the city's emergency response center is still in "pilot light mode" -- inactive, but ready to ramp up if flood issues should become a threat. Cesar Chavez march

Rain didn't stop a Cesar Chavez-inspired march from West Sacramento to the state capitol on Saturday morning.

Marchers honored the late labor organizer and carried banners calling for taxes on the rich instead of budget cuts that hurt the poor.

Participating groups included labor groups, Latin American and Islamic groups, the ACLU, West Sacramento's Democratic chapter and others, with varying messages.

The march began near Arteaga's market at Sacramento Avenue and Kegle Drive, then proceeded along Jefferson and West Capitol and over the Tower Bridge to Sacramento.

Neighbors invited to hear about planned cell phone tower near Marshall Rd., Southport Pkwy

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

AT&T has invited some Southport residents to a community meeting to "discuss the proposed wireless facility" which is "required to address the growing need in this West Sacramento community for wireless voice, data and broadband coverage and capacity." The project – which needs city approval – is planned for city land at the southeast corner of Southport Parkway and Marshall Road.

What the invitation does not say is that the planned "wireless facility" is a 60-foot cell phone tower in the shape of a eucalyptus tree. There's no mention of a tower, or its height, or its design.

The company doesn't have to hold a community meeting as part of its effort to get a conditional use permit from the City of West Sacramento, said David Tilley, a senior planner for the City of West Sacramento.

But "I believe the notice could have been a little more descriptive," Tilley commented. Since the March 22 notice went out, Tilley said he has heard from several residents concerned about the planned cell phone tower.

"Just so far, I've heard from four people," Tilley told the News-Ledger Monday. "Their opinions were not favorable."

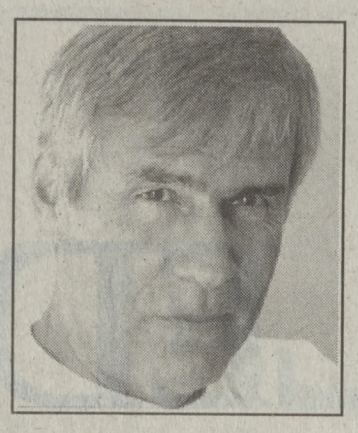
The residents cited aesthetic concerns as well as worries about the alleged health effects of electromagnetic radiation from the tower. But Tilley said federal law prohibits the city from using radiation concerns as a basis of turning down the permit.

AT&T's community meeting is planned for 6:30-8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 5, at the Bridgeway Lakes Boathouse Facility, 3650 Southport Parkway.

AT&T didn't immediately return a phone call requesting comment.

How men & women exercise differently

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

For those of you who read this column regularly, you are aware that over the years I have often talked about the fact that no matter how hard our culture tries to make us believe the opposite, men and women are actually very different creatures. For instance, I have written at some length about how men and women have different shower routines, and that men are visual while women are verbal, and that most women love to shop for clothes while most men would rather be tarred and feathered than spend countless hours going from one clothes boutique to another. Anyway, it has now come to my attention that men and women even exercise differently, and here is how that little insight came to pass.

A friend of mine called me awhile back to ask for some advice on how she should go about setting up an exercise routine and the first thing I said was, "Well, that would depend on what your goals are. I mean, if you just want to get into a little better shape, that's one thing, but if you would like to be able to run a marathon down the line, that's a totally different animal."

"I want to lose 40 pounds," she said matter-of-factly.

"Oh."

"You see," she continued, "until I was about 40, I could eat absolutely anything I wanted and I wouldn't gain a single pound. But now it seems like everything I put into my mouth that has a few extra calories goes straight to my hips and stomach, and I need that to stop!"

"Well," I said, "a doctor once told me that as we age, our metabolism changes, along with our bodies. In fact, he said that our bodies change dramatically at the ages of 25 and again at 45, and sure enough, the day after my 45th birthday, I suddenly needed reading glasses."

"I know you do a lot of walking," she continued, "so I was thinking I would start with that."

"Great idea," I said, trying to be as encouraging as possible. "In fact, I think if you simply start walking about 45 minutes or so a day, and be careful about what you eat, I bet you will start seeing results in no time at all. And once you start feeling like you're in a little better shape, I would also suggest doing some light weight-lifting so that as the pounds come off, you'll be able to tone up things as you go and kill two birds with one stone."

Anyway, we talked a little longer and my friend thanked me for my advice and then I didn't hear from her again until yesterday, and our conversation went a little something like this:

"Daryl, you are going to be so proud of me!"

"How come?" I asked with interest.

"Well, I started my new exercise program today and I walked for almost three hours!"

"Wow," I said, "that's great, but you might want to take it a little easy at first. I mean, three hours of exercise right out of the starting gate might actually be a bit too much."

"And I walked almost 10,000 steps in the process!"

"You know how many steps you took?"

"Sure."

"How did you figure that out?"

"I bought myself a pedometer."

"What's that?"

"It's this little electronic gadget you attach to your belt and it counts every single step you take on your walk."

"But why do you need to know that?" I asked.

"I don't know, I guess it just makes exercising more fun if you can figure out how far you've gone. And now do you want to hear all about my walk?"

"Sure."

"Well, I decided to walk all the way over to the local shopping mall, and I hadn't really gone very far at all when I suddenly saw these two beautiful little bunnies playing around in a field. So I took my digital camera out of my purse and I got some really great pictures of them."

"You took your purse along with you on your walk?"

"Of course. Anyway, it was an absolutely gorgeous morning, and about a thousand steps after I saw the cute little bunnies, I noticed that the sky was fully of big puffy white clouds, you know, the kind of clouds that make themselves into animal shapes. So as I walked along, I saw a cloud that looked like a buffalo, and another that was shaped exactly like a horse, and even one that I swear was the spitting image of Big Bird!"

"So, you spent the first part of your three-hour walk taking pictures of bunnies and watching the clouds go by?"

"That's right, and then when I finally got to the shopping center, I realized it was lunch time, so I stopped and got myself a taco and a coke. But only one taco – and instead of real coke like I usually drink, I ordered a Diet Coke."

'Let me get this straight. Your three-hour workout today consisted of taking photos of cute bunnies, watching animal clouds float buy, and stopping off at Taco Bell and a bookstore?'

"I see. Then what did you do?"

"Well," I had to stand in line for quite awhile to get my taco and Diet Coke, and my pedometer didn't like that much, so as soon as I had finished my lunch, off I went again on my walk, but before I knew it, I came across the cutest little bookstore, and you know me, I can't pass by a bookstore without going in, so I spent about an hour in there, although I tried to keep moving up and down the aisles so my pedometer would keep counting steps."

"Let me ask you this?" I said. "At anytime during your three-hour walk today, did you ever find yourself sweating?"

"Of course not! I hate to sweat. Plus if I had gone and gotten myself all sweaty, then I would have had to go home and wash my hair again, and believe me, with my long hair, that's a very time-consuming and tedious process."

"So," I said, "let me get this straight. Your three-hour workout today consisted of taking photos of cute bunnies, watching animal clouds float buy, and stopping off at Taco Bell and a bookstore?"

"That's right, and it took me almost 10,000 steps to do it all, so I think that's a great start to my new exercise routine, don't you? Oh, and by the way, I remembered what you said about how I should do some weight-lifting when I exercise, too, so when I was in the bookstore, I bought a couple of really heavy books and carried them all the way home. Now, are you proud of me or what?"

City & Cordish may have a deal regarding the future of 215-acre Stone Lock property

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

At about 5 p.m. on Monday, the City of West Sacramento announced a special closed-door meeting of the city council to take place yesterday evening.

The topic is the continuing negotiations over the possible sale of the 215-acre, publicly owned "Stone Lock District" acreage to The Cordish Companies, a nationally-known developer. Results of the meeting weren't known at press time.

The "Stone Lock District" land near the barge canal and Sacramento River is owned by the city's redevelopment agency. Governor Brown proposes to abolish the agencies to save state revenues, and West Sacramento officials say that the city may have to dispose of the Stone Lock District property and other redevelopment agency properties in some sort of "fire sale" if the governor's plan goes through.

The city's effort to sell Cordish an "option to buy" the Stone Lock acreage sometime in the future would protect the land from such a fire sale. But the two parties haven't yet come to terms.

The agenda for yesterday's closed session meeting says, in part, that the city wants the deal to include a requirement that Cordish agree to a development agreement before it could ever exercise its option to buy the land. The development agreement would allow the city to negotiate exactly what ends up getting built on the project. The land is intended for mixed uses that could include a future marina, hotels, restaurants, offices and homes.

"If (Cordish's holding company) accepts this condition, then staff is prepared to recommend approval of the sale of the Stone Lock District Property subject to the conditions of the Option Agreement," says the agenda description from city staff. But if Cordish doesn't agree the deal will include a development agreement, then "staff is prepared to recommend approval of the sale of the Stone Lock Property to the Port of West Sacramento."

The port is controlled by the city.

Jim Bermudez, a senior program manager for the City of West Sacramento, said yesterday morning that he was "optimistic" that Cordish and the city would reach an accord that evening.

"Cordish has at this time accepted this agreement," said Bermudez.

The proposed option agreement calls for Cordish to pay $500 initially, and then $75,000 annually, to maintain the right to buy any or all of five parcels making up the acreage. The option will last seven years unless Cordish terminates it or both parties extend it. The agreement will also be extended each time Cordish buys a portion.

Actual price of any land sold would be set by future appraisal, but the city staff report for last week's council meeting said the Stone Lock District land is currently estimated at about $2.5 million in value.

Without that awning, it could have been a lot worse: a local two-year old is recovering after a fall from a second-story window Monday evening. The accident happened at the Holly Court apartments on Maple Street.

"The two-year old girl was in the living room of an apartment on the second floor," said Lieutenant Tod Sockman of the West Sacramento Police Department. "They were all hanging out watching TV, and the girl was standing on the couch. The window was open, but the screen was on. She fell back through the screen. Luckily, there was an awning below, and it sort of broker her fall before she rolled off and hit the ground."

"She suffered a head injury that is not being described as major, and had to be taken to the hospital."

But besides that and some crying, the girl seems to be okay.

The parents are not being blamed by police.

"It's not any kind of neglect issue as far as we see," Sockman said.

THE YOLO INDEPENDENT — FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1

WASHINGTON IMPROVEMENT CLUB WILL PROTEST AGAINST WITHDRAWAL OF CAR SERVICE

RENEWED EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO SECURE SUPPLY OF GAS FOR DOMESTIC PURPOSES WITHIN THE TOWN

At a largely attended meeting of the Washington Improvement Club last Wednesday evening, the Secretary of the organization was instructed to write to the Railroad Commission protesting against the withdrawal of street car service from Sacramento to West Sacramento.

The residents of Washington believe that the withdrawal of this service would be injurious to the town and would be injurious to all property owners in the vicinity of West Sacramento.

The service was established several years ago when it was estimated that West Sacramento City would become a populous place, but through financial reverses the promotion of the project was delayed and therefore the street car service was an unprofitable venture.

Lately the Sacramento Northern Railway made request on the Railroad Commission to discontinue the service and it is on that account that the Washington Improvement Club protested against the withdrawal.

With the many activities in West Sacramento the residents of Washington believe the street car service will become profitable in a short time and they voluntarily offer their best assistance in making the service a profitable one for the time being.

The residents of Washington consider that this time is inauspicious to withdraw the service because the Virden Packing Company is about to establish its plant in West Sacramento and the service will be badly needed following that improvement.

With the advent of the packing company and the several great industries now located in West Sacramento, there seems no doubt that the street car service will become profitable within a short time.

Several months ago an offer was made by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to extend its gas mains across the river provided sufficient support could be secured for the proposition.

A committee of ladies of the club was named to canvas the residents of the town in order to show to the corporation that sufficient support would be at hand.

Unfortunately during the summer season those ladies were so busy that the effort lagged and was revived last Tuesday evening, to be promoted strenously right away.

It is estimated that with a supply of gas for domestic purposes much better rentals can be secured by property owners in the town and more people will be willing to move to Washington from the outlying districts of Sacramento. Residents of Sacramento all use gas during the summer season for cooking purposes and if inclined to move to Washington, hesitate about disposing of their gas stoves and further object to using gasoline or wood for cooking purposes during the summer season.

The ladies of the committee were asked last Tuesday evening to start immediately on securing signatures to the petition for a gas supply.

The committee is composed of Mrs. J. McNevin, Mrs. A. M. Cameron, Mrs. Wm. Wilson, Mrs. W. A. Parkinson and Mrs. W. F. Curry.

In relation to the question asked the War Department lately by the club as to the feasibility of filling the town through suction dredger by pumping sand from the bed of the river, the Secretary was in receipt of a reply that did not answer the desired question and was instructed to write again for further information.

This proposal has a great deal of merit and has the support of all the property owners of the town.

It contemplates offering to the War Department the use of streets and sidewalks for the deposit of filling taken from the bed of the river to help navigation purposes.

This would serve two purposes, namely: Disposal of the debris by the Government and the filling of the town to the grade of the Southern Pacific tracks on Ann street.

The Washington Improvement Club sees therein great benefit to the property owners of the town and stands behind the project with all its force.

Regular meetings of the club will be held in the future on the first and third Tuesdays of each month. Every property owner in the town is welcome to attend these meetings and is urged to be present to participate in the discussions that have for their purpose future benefits for every property owner.

UNAVOIDABLE CRASH BROUGHT DEATH TO YOUNG BOY

Last Saturday evening at 5:30 p. m. Alberto Luigi, the 7-year-old son of Everesto Luigi, lost his life in an auto accident that befell him on Ann street, between 4th and 5th.

At this point the grade of the street is much below the crossing at 4th or 5th, and much below the grade of the S. P. tracks that run on the street.

Alberto and his brother were returning from Sacramento. In play Mario chased him down the S. P. embankment at the foot of which he stumbled and fell.

Just at that moment Miss Gertrude Mast crossed the grade at 4th street on her way to her home in Woodland. There was no time for her to turn aside nor to stop. Quick as thought her car rolled over the prostrate boy, crushing his skull, breaking his leg in two places and injuring him internally.

Miss Mast stopped her car within 30 feet of the body and tried to render all the assistance she could, although she was hysterical.

Her companions, Hazel Cranston, Helen Summers, Hazel Ulrich, Pearl Dickson and Margaret Horling, helped also. They were returning to Woodland from the football game in Sacramento.

The boy was taken to the emergency hospital in Sacramento and later to the Sisters Hospital, where he died within an hour of the accident.

His funeral was held Tuesday from St. Mary's Church in Sacramento, interment being in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

All the children of his class room in the Washington school accompanied his remains from his home to the end of the S. P. bridge and six of them acted as pall bearers.

Alberto was an estimable little fellow, full of fun, and very bright in school.

A Coroner's jury held in Sacramento by Coroner Skelton exonerated Miss Mast and her companions from any blame for the death of the boy.

FILM COMPANY IS TAKING PICTURES.

During several days of the past week a Los Angeles film company has been taking pictures of streets and river scenes in this vicinity.

Last night a scow was burned near the Yolo by-pass for scenic effect and "Inky" Peek was the hero, rescuing a young lady named Polly from the river.

Several local young men have been engaged with the film company.

Some time ago a fake film company took scenes in Washington or rather pretended to do so. The gang were detectives hunting for women of the underworld.

It is not believed that the company now taking pictures is a fake.

Church Fair held last week to help teh Italian Catholic Church in Sacramento was a great success.

RICE MILLS ARE AT WORK ON THIS SEASON'S CROP

Last Monday the National Rice Mill and the California State Rice Company's mill in West Sacramento started their plants on this season's crop.

Only a few men are at work for the time being, but later on as the paddy rice arrives more men will e put to work.

Such rice as has arrived up to the present time is of fairly good quality, but not up to expectations. Most of this has come from Glenn and Colusa Counties.

The rice harvest in Yolo County has just started and the crop will

Notice of Availability Draft Environmental Impact Statement

Lead Agency: City of West Sacramento

Project: West Coast Recycling Group Metal Recycling Facility

Location: The approximately 15-acre project site is located at 3125 Industrial Boulevard within the City of West Sacramento in Yolo County, California. The project site is located in the northwestern portion of the Port of West Sacramento, approximately 0.5 miles south of U.S. Highway 50 and 1.25 miles west of Interstate 5. The project site is bounded by Industrial Boulevard to the north and east, the Sacramento Deep Water Ship Channel and turning basin to the south, and Lake Washington to the west.

Project description: The West Coast Recycling Group LLC (WCRG) proposes to develop and operate a scrap metal shredding and recycling facility at the Port of West Sacramento. The project would require a conditional use permit from the City of West Sacramento and a ground lease from the Port of West Sacramento.

A large portion of the project site was previously used as a log export yard, and smaller portions of the site have been used for concrete recycling and heavy equipment storage. Predominant land uses in the vicinity of the project site are industrial. Land uses adjacent to and surrounding the Port include industrial facilities, warehouses, office buildings, and other commercial land uses. Residential land uses are located south and east of the Port. Development of the project site would include installation of shredder equipment, sorting equipment, office and warehouse buildings, truck scales, a storm water detention pond, and an electrical substation and associated power poles. Project implementation would also involve construction of a new entrance to the Port, located on Industrial Boulevard approximately 350 feet east of the intersection of Beacon Drive and Industrial Boulevard. The project site is not a listed hazardous waste site.

Operations at the proposed facility would include scrap metal shredding, material separation and processing to extract usable material, and management of nonmetallic waste material. Vehicles shredded onsite will already have been dismantled by others to remove vehicle fluids, tires, batteries, and reusable parts. The facility would include emission controls and an industrial storm water system to capture and reuse rainwater. A portion of the metal material delivered for shredding at the facility would include retired automobiles. Other types of scrap metal would also be shredded, such as appliances and industrial scrap metal.

The City of West Sacramento, acting as lead agency, prepared a Draft Environmental Impact Report/Environmental Impact Statement (DEIR/DEIS) under its authority as lead agency in accordance with the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) and under its authority as the responsible entity/cooperating agency for compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), in accordance with 42 U.S.C. 5304(g) and HUD regulations at 24 CFR 58.4. Combat Sneaky Cyber Predators Wherever They May Lurk

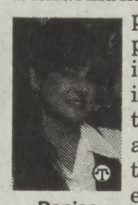
by Denise Richardson

(NAPS)—As a victim of identity theft and an advocate for victims of this crime, I have learned that no matter how safe you think your information is, it isn't. And no matter how simple it may seem to prove your own innocence, that isn't easy either. I take precautions against identity theft and urge others to do the same because I know that cleaning up after an occurrence of an identity theft can be time consuming and costly—financially as well as emotionally.



Denise Richardson

Just as in any of life's circumstances, knowledge is power. That should include becoming wise to some of the lesser-known types of identity theft—and the various methods crooks use today to access our data and identity. Whether your personal information is used to commit other crimes, clean out your bank accounts, file false tax returns, steal your home equity or obtain medical benefits, the crime can affect you for years to come. Take a look at these recent cases in the news. These stories demonstrate that identity theft is about far more than just your credit report.

Take the case of Larry Smith. His name, birth certificate and personal details were used by someone else to obtain medical benefits; all the while, he also used Smith's name and "identity" to commit various crimes that eventually landed Smith in jail, left to prove his innocence.

The time, energy and money the Smiths have invested in trying to recover from this identity theft are staggering. Not many of us can even imagine that nightmare—but it happens.

Most of us can't imagine, either, what Anndorie Sachs has been through. She got a call at her home telling her that she had given birth to a baby addicted to methamphetamines. Since she hadn't had a baby in over two years, she knew someone had obtained medical services using her name. In 2009, over 300,000 people experienced some form of medical identity theft.

Now consider the case of Mike Calcutt of Minnesota. He had his home equity line hacked to the tune of $88,593, and despite being able to show that whoever faxed in the requests for access was fraudulent, he has to pay back the bank. Then there is Florida resident Terri Bryan, who learned that someone filed a false tax return using her Social Security number and date of birth. As Bryan now waits on the results of an IRS investigation, she also waits on her refund—and word of what other crimes may be committed in her name.

Lenny Vigliotti is a Florida resident who discovered that somebody wired $12,000 from his savings account through multiple banks, before it ended up in the Ukraine. Three months later, he was still fighting to recover his money.

Fortunately, it's not all bad news. There are a lot of things that we can do today that we couldn't do just a few years ago to lessen the risk and impact of this crime. As identity theft has evolved, so has the technology to detect it. Credit protection alone isn't enough. Companies such as LifeLock, online at www.lifelock.com, use up-to-the-minute methods to detect, alert, protect and, if necessary, help correct the harm caused by an identity theft.

I don't know about you, but I don't have the time, desire or the tech savvy to scour the more than 10,000 black market chat rooms detecting whether data that was hacked, phished or skimmed by a hi-tech device or criminal activity is being sold. If something happens to me like happened to Smith, Sachs, Calcutt, Bryan or Vigliotti, I'll have help getting my life back.

• Denise Richardson is a consumer advocate and author of "Give Me Back My Credit!" A victim of identity theft, she became a certified identity theft risk management specialist, trained by The Institute of Fraud Risk Management, and is a member of the National Association of Consumer Advocates.

GO FIGURE! by Linda Thistle

"Little Fockers" (PG-13) — Ben Stiller and Robert De Niro return for another round of low-brow shenanigans involving vomiting, erectile dysfunction and scraping the bottom of the Fockers Is Funny Cuz It Sounds Like The F-Word comedy well. Maybe next year they can do a spin-off called "Meet The Fartz."

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Tron: Legacy"/"Tron: The Original Classic" (PG) — After waiting nearly 30 years, fans of the 1982 Disney sci-fi epic "Tron" finally get the sequel they've been dying to see. (Oh sure, to many, "Tron: Legacy" looks like a two-hour Daft Punk video, but I'm cool with that.) The film stars Garrett Hedlund as Sam Flynn, the son of a computer genius (Jeff Bridges) who went missing decades ago. When Sam discovers his dad's secret workshop, he gets sucked into a computer program where he must find and rescue his imprisoned father. Thankfully, Sam has the help of Quorra (Olivia Wilde) a bad-ass, sexycool warrior. Oh, and the light cycles from the first film are back. Yeah. Light cycles, baby.

Disney has really pulled out all the stops for "Tron: Legacy"'s home video release, with a wide variety of packages. You can buy the single-disc versions of both "Legacy" and the original film, or choose from several different multi-disc boxed sets. The five-disc set contains the original film, plus "Legacy" in Blu-Ray, Blu-Ray 3D and digital copy, along with a special-features disc loaded with behind-the-scenes goodies. One of the more intriguing special features is the Disney Second Screen option that allows you to watch the film on your TV while interactive extras pop up on your iPad or computer.

"The Chronicles of Narnia: The Voyage of the Dawn Treader" (PG) — The Pevensie kids are back for this third installment of the timeless C.S. Lewis fantasy series. This time instead of entering Narnia via the wardrobe, the children are sucked into a painting of the Narnian ship, "The Dawn Treader," where they must help King Caspian save the people of Narnia.

Dig This Gig: Find Your Dream Job — Or Invent It
By Laura Dodd
(Kensington Publishing, $14.95)
Reviewed by Rose M. Croke

With an estimated 14 million Americans currently "between jobs" and 84 percent of the working population interested in finding a new job or making a career move, it seems like much of today's workforce is looking for meaningful work. In her first book, "Dig This Gig," author Laura Dodd interviews 32 young adults, all of whom work at ordinary and extraordinary "gigs," and describes the paths they took to find or create meaningful careers for themselves.

Through candid conversations, Dodd provides in detail what work is really like in today's fastest-growing fields and most sought-after professions. From "glamour gigs" like entertainment, news and government to green gigs, do-good ventures and healthcare jobs, "Dig This Gig" should be required reading for college students and "boomerang kids" facing the toughest job market in decades.

Eight mentors who represent a cross section of corporate and nonprofit organizations — including veteran journalist Dan Rather, Christina Norman, CEO of The Oprah Winfrey Network, and Frances Beinecke, president of the National Resources Defense Council — also weigh in with their expert opinions and sage advice. Each chapter concludes with a pithy postscript, in which each subject reflects on what he or she would do differently if they had to do it all over again, and the three mandatory characteristics they think are needed for success in their chosen professions.

Dodd doesn't tritely prod readers into thinking they can be whatever they want to be if they just put their minds to it. Instead, readers get real-life career profiles from those who dug in deep and endured — the sweat, the tears, the ecstatic highs and despairing lows, and the unforeseen setbacks — to find the career paths that work for them. "Dig This Gig" reminds workers of all ages that in order to blaze your own path, it's often up to you to fuel the fire.

Grandma Jo's Stew

This crockpot recipe is a favorite of my grandsons. They love all the vegetables and meat chopped into tiny pieces. I love that it simmers away while I play with the boys.

16 ounces lean round steak, cut into 36 pieces
2 cups sliced carrots
1 cup chopped onion
1 1/2 cups chopped celery
2 cups diced raw potatoes
1 cup frozen peas
1 (10 3/4-ounce) can reduced-fat tomato soup
1 (8-ounce) can cream-style corn
2 teaspoons dried parsley flakes
1/8 teaspoon black pepper

1. Spray a slow-cooker container with butter-flavored cooking spray. In prepared container, combine meat, carrots, onion, celery, potatoes and peas.

2. In a small bowl, combine tomato soup, corn, parsley flakes and black pepper. Stir soup mixture into meat mixture. Cover and cook on LOW for 8 hours. Mix well just before serving. Makes 6 (1 1/2 cup) servings.

• Each serving equals: 237 calories, 5g fat, 20g protein, 28g carb., 336mg sodium, 4g fiber; Diabetic Exchanges: 2 Meat, 1 1/2 Starch, 1 Vegetable.

Red Wine Steaks with Green Beans

Low in carbs and accompanied by healthful veggies, this low added-fat steak dinner is sauced with a rich red wine reduction.

1 1/2 pounds beef strip steaks (each 1 inch thick)
Salt
Pepper
1 tablespoon margarine or butter
1 bag (12-ounce) microwave-in-the-bag green beans
1 teaspoon red wine vinegar
2 shallots, finely chopped
1 cup dry red wine
1/4 cup packed fresh tarragon leaves, finely chopped

1. Sprinkle steaks with 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper to season both sides. In 12-inch skillet, melt 1/2 tablespoon margarine on medium-high. Add steaks and cook 7 minutes for medium-rare or until desired doneness, turning steaks over once.

2. Meanwhile, cook green beans in microwave as label directs. Transfer beans to large bowl and toss with vinegar, 1/8 teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper and 1 tablespoon shallots.

3. Transfer steaks to plate. Reduce heat to medium-low and add remaining shallots to skillet. Cook 5 minutes or until tender, stirring occasionally.

4. Add wine, increase heat to medium-high and simmer 2 minutes, stirring and scraping up browned bits from pan. Remove from heat and stir in tarragon, accumulated steak juices and remaining margarine until margarine melts.

5. To serve, slice steak across grain. Divide steak and green beans among serving plates. Spoon sauce over steak. Makes 4 main-dish servings.

• Each serving: About 455 calories, 29g total fat (11g saturated), 97mg cholesterol, 340mg sodium, 9g total carbohydrate, 2g dietary fiber, 37g protein.

Strawberry Ice Cream

Making your own ice cream is easier than you think — especially when it doesn't require a fancy machine. This delectable four-ingredient treat whips up in 10 minutes flat and freezes into scoopable sweetness in an hour. A serving of labor-intensive, custard-based strawberry ice cream has 282 calories, 12 grams of saturated fat and 134 times the cholesterol of our luscious dessert, which has a mere 70 calories per serving and less than 1/2 gram of saturated fat. So go ahead: Spoon up some more.

1 pound frozen strawberries
1 cup 2 percent plain Greek yogurt
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
Strawberries, for garnish

1. In food processor with knife blade attached, pulse 1 cup strawberries until finely chopped. Transfer chopped berries to large metal bowl.

2. In food processor, puree yogurt, sugar, vanilla and remaining strawberries until smooth. Transfer to bowl with strawberries; stir until well-combined.

3. Cover and freeze about 1 hour, until firm but not hard. Garnish with strawberries. Makes 7 (1/2-cup) servings.

Tips: You can substitute plain low-fat yogurt for the Greek yogurt. When testing this recipe, we found both worked well, but we preferred Greek yogurt's creamier texture. We also tested this in three different freezers and found that the freezing time varied depending on freezer make and model. Begin checking your ice cream at 1 hour, and continue freezing if you prefer a firmer texture.

• Each serving: About 70 calories, 1g total fat (0.4g saturated), 1mg cholesterol, 10mg sodium, 14g total carbs, 1g dietary fiber, 3g protein.

Q. I have been watching "Smallville" since it premiered back in 2001, so I am pretty bummed that the series will soon come to an end. Can you tell me anything about the show's finale? — Jerry T., Madison, Wis.

A. Well, I can tell you that some bad guys from Clark's past will return (as a few already have). And yes, that includes Lex Luthor: Michael Rosenbaum will be back for the series finale on May 13. You also will enjoy where the relationship of Lois and Clark goes, and producer Kelly Souders assures fans that "there is a very hopeful ending" to the series itself.

Q. I love ABC's "No Ordinary Family." Will it be back for a second season? — Trudy T., via e-mail

A. Things are not looking good for the freshman drama to make it to its sophomore year. Series star Michael Chiklis has signed on to star in Conan O'Brien's pilot for CBS called "Vince Uncensored," which focuses on a man (Michael) who decides to take a more honest approach to his life, work and family after a life-changing experience.

Q. I've seen a few previews for a new movie starring Helen Hunt and Dennis Quaid about Bethany Hamilton, the surfer who lost her arm in shark attack a few years back. What can you tell me about the movie? — Deanna F., Daytona Beach, Fla.

A. I can tell you that you'd better bring some tissues to the theater with you when the movie, which is called "Soul Surfer," opens nationwide on April 8. AnnaSophia Robb stars as the young Bethany Hamilton, who overcomes tragedy to achieve her dreams of becoming a champion surfer.

Ross Thomas, who plays Bethany's brother Noah in the film, told me: "There is a beautiful theme of hope and faith in the film. The Hamilton family is such a strong unit. They really all work as one; they have a deep set of family values. They are a Christian family who has a really deep faith that they rely heavily upon. They all exude a really high level of love and life. It's truly inspiring."

Q. Please tell me there will be a third season of HBO's "Eastbound and Down." I need more Kenny Powers! — Samuel D., via e-mail

A. You will get your wish, if only for one more season. Series star Danny McBride, who is also one of the show's writers and executive producers, and writer, director and executive producer Jody Hill are said to be helming the third and final season in the Kenny Powers saga. Production on "Eastbound and Down" season three is tentatively scheduled for the end of this year for a 2012 premiere. I'll be sure to let you know of any further developments, as I can't wait to see how this hilarious and boundary-stomping series ends myself!

Don't Shy Away From Shrimp

If you've taken shrimp off the menu because you have fears about high amounts of cholesterol, there is good news. You don't have to give up shrimp! Research shows and dietitians concur that the high percentage of "good fats" in shrimp reduces the impact of cholesterol. So, enjoy shrimp as part of a balanced and delicious diet.

In addition to being a great source of high-quality protein, shrimp is rich in health-enhancing nutrients. It also is low in fat and calories. Here are just a few reasons to place shrimp on your menu:

Vitamin D: Four ounces of shrimp provide almost half the daily requirement of vitamin D, also known as the sunshine vitamin. Vitamin D helps build strong bones, maintain a healthy immune system and also may lower the risk of conditions such as type 2 diabetes, high blood pressure and colon cancer.

Selenium: A serving of shrimp can provide 65 percent of the daily selenium requirement. This powerful antioxidant has been linked to a lower risk of certain cancers and also promotes healthy function of the thyroid gland.

Vitamin B-12: Four ounces of shrimp provide a third of the daily requirement for vitamin B-12. It has many functions, including formation of red blood cells and maintenance of a healthy nervous system.

Tryptophan: One serving of shrimp provides 100 percent of the recommended daily intake of this essential amino acid. Tryptophan plays a role in appetite control and sleep, and improves mood.

This Shrimp Scampi with Tomatoes and Spinach is a "Diva-style" version of the traditional dish. It's a one-pan meal that can be prepared in less than 30 minutes.

SHRIMP SCAMPI WITH TOMATOES AND SPINACH

Frozen shrimp is the perfect "go to" item for a quick and nutritious meal and works well in this recipe.

1 1/2 pounds jumbo shrimp, fresh or frozen and thawed, shelled and de-veined
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
2 tablespoons unsalted butter
2 teaspoons minced garlic
1 can (14.5 ounces) diced tomatoes with juice
1 cup chicken broth
2 tablespoons freshly squeezed lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon grated lemon zest
1 bag (about 6-10 ounces) fresh baby spinach
2 teaspoons finely chopped flat-leaf parsley or basil leaves
1/2 (8 ounces) of a 16-ounce package linguine pasta, cooked and drained (about 4 cups)
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

1. Put the shrimp on a large pie pan or plate and pat dry completely with a paper towel. Toss the shrimp with the olive oil and 1/2 teaspoon salt, pepper and cayenne pepper. Arrange shrimp so they lay flat and are evenly spaced.

2. Heat a large skillet over medium heat. Add butter to the skillet. When foaming subsides, raise heat to high; carefully invert the plate of shrimp over the pan so the shrimp fall into the pan in an even layer, all at once.

3. Cook the shrimp, without moving them, for 1 minute. Add garlic, turn the shrimp and cook for 1 minute. Transfer shrimp mixture to a bowl and set aside.

4. Return skillet to the heat and add tomatoes, chicken broth and remaining 1/2 teaspoon of salt and black pepper to the pan to make a sauce. Turn heat to high and bring sauce to a boil, scraping up any browned bits from the bottom of the pan with a wooden spoon, until slightly thickened, about 2 to 3 minutes.

5. Add in the spinach, lemon juice and zest, and cook for 3 to 4 minutes or until spinach wilts slightly. Add the shrimp, parsley or basil, and the pasta to the skillet, and toss to coat. Portion onto plates and top with a sprinkle of Parmesan cheese. Serve immediately.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was venerable American newscaster David Brinkley who made the following sage observation: "The one function TV news performs very well is that when there is no news, we give it to you with the same emphasis as if there were."

• According to Guinness World Records, the oldest cat in the world was named Crème Puff and lived to the ripe old age of 38 years and three days.

• If you do much printing, you might not be surprised to learn that if you figure out the cost by volume, the average ink cartridge for a printer costs seven times more than Dom Perignon champagne.

• On an average day in the United States, 90 million cans of beer will be consumed.

• If you're planning a summer jaunt to Atlantic City, N.J., this year, you might want to stop by Margate City, just a couple of miles south of the gambling mecca. While you're there you can see the oldest zoomorphic structure in the United States. Lucy the Elephant, built in 1882 by James V. Lafferty, is 65 feet tall and has served at various times as a cottage, a business office, a restaurant and a tavern. In 1976 it was designated a National Historic Landmark.

A Petition for Probate has been filed by Lucienne Sindell-Turquet in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

The Petition for Probate requests that Carolyn M. Young be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows: May 4, 2011, at 8:30 a.m. in Dept. 15, Superior Court of California, County of Yolo, 725 Court St., Woodland CA 95695.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250.
